A total of 12 calves and 53 sheep on 8 separate IACUC-approved protocols were confined to a stanchion for the minimum period of time necessary to accomplish the objectives of the approved research protocols, sometimes exceeding 24 hours, in order to provide proper care during the post-operative period, and to prevent harm to the animal during this period. The IACUC reviewed and approved the explanation and justification for "extended restraint" in each of these protocols.

This report is required by law (7 USC 2143). Failure to report according to the regulations can result in an order to cease and desist and to be subject to penalties as provided for in Section 2150.

Exception Summary

Oct. 1, 2005 – Sept. 30, 2006

The IACUC approved an exception to house rabbits in cages that provided less than the required square footage for a period of up to 4 days. The space restriction was required to restrict the animal's movement following application of an intravenous catheter for continuous infusion, indwelling urinary catheter, and urine collection system. This exception was reviewed and approved by the IACUC with the requirement that on-site monitoring was provided for the animals for at least 18 hours per day by qualified personnel. Fourteen rabbits were covered under this exception during the reporting period.

IACUC APPROVED EXCEPTION

Rabbits - 49 offspring during this reporting period

IACUC has approved the use of a leaf of hay rather than a nest box for rabbit offspring less than one month of age. The sides of the cage and the flooring protect offspring from getting entrapped or falling through the cage sides or floor. By eliminating a hard sided nest box, there are fewer incidents of offspring getting trapped and squeezed between the cage walls and the next box. The hay provides a safe haven for the offspring in breeding cages of this design.
